

Tribe Hosts Easton Tomorrow Night

Last Home Tilt of Month For Istrouma; BRHS, CHS Prep for Friday Games

By MIKE COOK

Istrouma's Indiana were slated to run through light drills this afternoon in the final phase of preparation for their last home game of the month.

The Redskins host the Warren Easton Eagles of New Orleans at Memorial Stadium here tomorrow night. Kickoff time is 7:30.

BRHS and CHS also are scheduled to play their last home games of the month. BRHS will play at home against the Golden Bears of the University of Louisiana at Baton Rouge at 7:30 p.m. Friday night.

Coach Ray Coates' CHS Bruins make their debut in regular-season action at Algiers where they take on Holy Name, also making its first appearance of the campaign.

Following the Easton game tomorrow night, Coach Fuzzy Brown's Istrouma aggregation begins getting its heavy artillery in shape for a march into Arkansas and Texas, seeking to avenge the only two losses of the 1956 campaign.

The Tribe will be in Little Rock Sept. 27, attempting to reverse a 34-0 setback at the hands of the Arkansas, and in New Orleans, Tex., Oct. 6, to try to even things up for a narrow 7-0 defeat. Both losses came on the home field before the Tribe muddled the skill that eventually took it to the state Triple-A championship.

The Redskins are gunning for their third straight title and looked the part of the No. 1 team in the state last Thursday night when they opened here with a smashing 47-0 victory over St. Stanislaus.

Warren Easton, the eighth-ranked AAA eleven, should be much tougher, but the Indians will be heavily favored to turn back the visitors.

Coach Brown is not selling the Eagles short, however. "They have a good ball club with a strong first team," the veteran mentor said. "Easton, a 2-6 victor in the Indians early last season, are undefeated and unscored on in two games thus far. The Eagles have taken a 6-0 win over St. Aloysius and a 7-0 triumph over Bogalusa."

Almost anything can happen against a good club," Coach Brown said. "That was a good, big Bogalusa team that Warren Easton beat."

Brown reported that Easton runs the ball well but has shown little inclination to pass. He also said the Eagles do not have great depth.

Most of Istrouma's big guns are ready for the tilt. Reserve fullback Robbie Sonnier, who was scheduled to start last week but bruised a knee before the game, is still listed as doubtful. Guard Frank Kelly is a little under the weather but may see action.

The Redskins held a good work-out yesterday, polishing the running and passing attack but doing no rough work.

Brown plans two changes in the starting lineup this week. Donnie Hughes will be in at left halfback for Lonnie Harper and Ted Hodges may take over at center for Mickey Fleming.

Elsewhere it will be the same with Gene Burleson and Jackie Cox at the ends, Martin Newman and Roy Winston at tackles, Norbert Roy and Sam Gourrier at guards, Lynn Amodeo at quarterback, Steve Ward at right half and all-state Don Smith at fullback.

Daroin Wins Three
SALEM, N.H., (UP)—Dave Daroin booted home three winners at Rockingham Park yesterday. Daroin scored on Easy Knight ($6.20), Phoebe's Babe ($16.20), and sound of dawn ($5.00) to run his victory total here to 41, second to Hank Wajda's pace-setting 54 total.

Glen Oaks Hosts Tribe B Team

Glen Oaks' ambitious Panthers get the jump on other East Baton Rouge Parish Class A and B teams in a full slate of football action this week.

The Panthers, originally scheduled to lay out with an open date, make their first home appearance of the season tonight against Istrouma's "B" team.

The tilt will be played at Baker's Wedge, Kyo Memorial Stadium, starting at 7:30.

In another contest involving parish teams this week, Louisiana School for the Deaf makes its debut tomorrow night, entertaining St. Francisville at City Park in a District 8-B duel. In Friday St. Stanislaus in the home opener, Baker wards off invading St. Amant in a District 7-A game.

Zachary welcomes debuting University High, Central defends against Port Allen, Woodlawn goes to New Roads for a District 8-B encounter with St. Joseph.

Advance tickets for the Baker-St. Amant rivalry tilt are now available at several locations at 50 cents for students and 75 cents for adults.

Tickets for tonight's Glen Oaks-Istrouma "B" tilt will be on sale at the gate for 50 and 75 cents.

Coach Russell "Fater" Bankston, whose Panthers are still winless in two games, will probably start Jerry Briler and Teddy Front at ends, Edward May and Alfred Fletcher at tackles, Dickie Bankston and Buddy Doming at guards, Zane Jones at center, James Boyette at quarterback, Johnny Hughes and Danny Kennedy at halfbacks and Ben Berry at fullback.

Leon McGraw and Roy Parla, who coach the Istrouma "B" unit, saw the Panthers in action with Zachary last week and said they were a "small, but spirited and hard-hitting bunch that never gave up."

For tonight's game, the first of the season for the young Redskins, McGraw and Parla will probably start Dickie Cox and Leslie Parsons at ends, Glenn Murray and Wayne Goudeau at tackles, Pat Warren and Charles Hargrave at guards, Melvin Badon at center, John McLaurin at quarterback, Donnie Cotten and Arlen Welch at halfbacks and Eugene Achard at fullback.

Mont is also afraid No. 2 quarterback Jim Hattor may be of questionable value because of leg muscle trouble. Sophomore John Forbes is running at third string fullback.

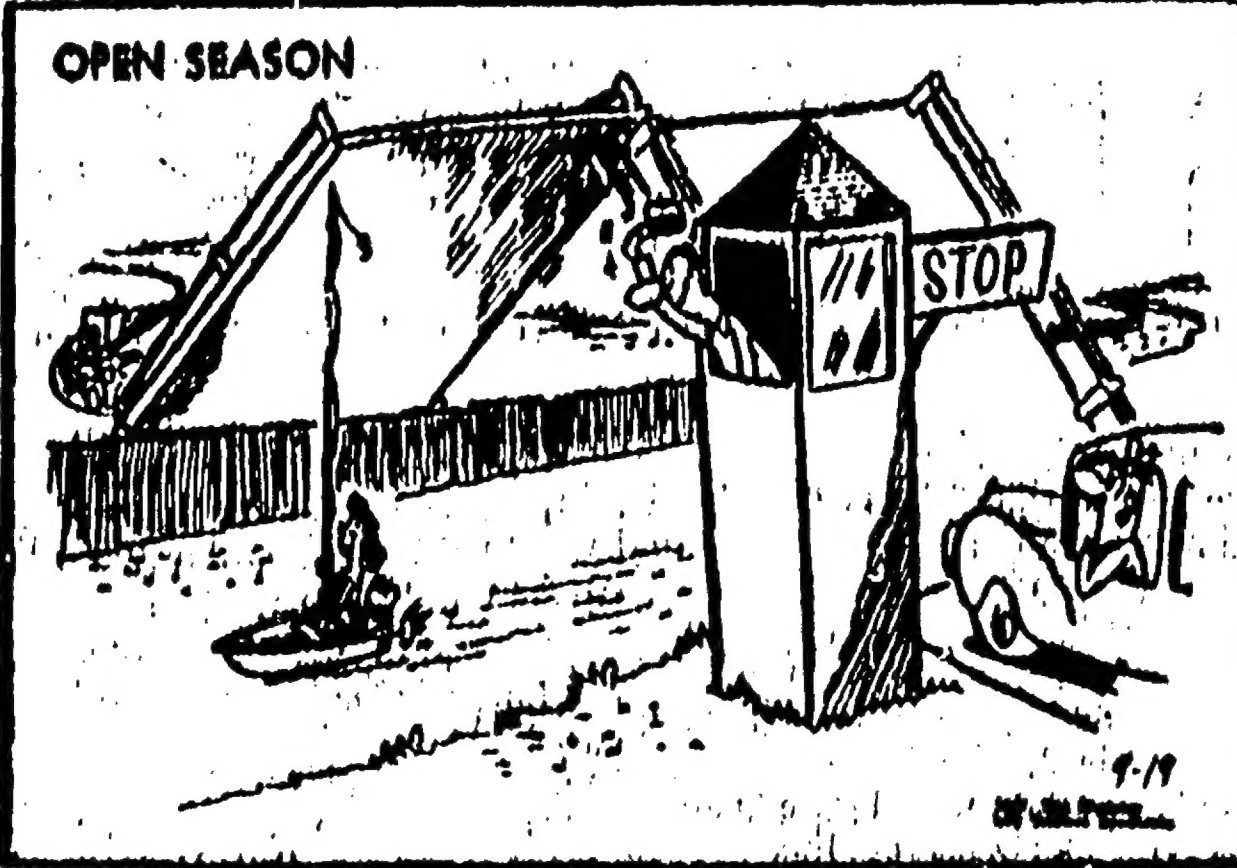

Maryland and Texas A&M will look a lot alike, in form at least, to the average TV viewer, according to Mont. Both Mont and Coach Paul Bryant go in heavily for power running of the ball and use the forward pass sparingly.

The "big runner" that Maryland fears is halfback John Crown. "I never saw a better college back," reported assistant Maryland coach Wiley Howell who scouted Texas A&M while it won nine games and tied the one last year.

While Mont is approaching the game with trepidation, especially in the Texas heat, he isn't conceding.

"Texas A&M is rated high (2nd in the AP pre-season poll) and Maryland is in a period of readjustment," he admitted, and very few teams have won in September in Texas—but it has been done.

Shavlik Back to NBA
NEW YORK, (UP)—Don Shavlik, six-foot-eight center who led North Carolina State to three straight Atlantic Coast Conference championships, and then failed to make the New York Knickerbockers team last season, aligned with them for the 1957-58 campaign Tuesday. Shavlik was hindered by an injured wrist and was cut loose by the Knicks after playing in seven NBA games last year.

Grid Queen Worried About Asian Flu

BERKELEY, Calif., (UP)—Fifteen co-eds kept their fingers crossed today lest Asian flu spoil their chance of winning the "Miss Football" crown at the University of California.

The co-eds arrived Tuesday from Los Angeles, where they were given anti-flu shots after one of their number, Beverly Burmeister of Texas Christian, had to go to the hospital with the flu.

Today's schedule called for the co-eds to attend a Rotary Club luncheon, a garden party in Lafayette and a sightseeing tour of San Francisco.

The campus queens include: Suzanne Scudder, Arkansas; Madeline Lee, Baylor; Kay Hammarstrom, British Columbia; Connie Morgan, Kansas State; Margaret McConnell, Maryland; Kathy Arnold, Michigan State; Mary Ann Mobley, Mississippi; Mary Ann Sheridan, Missouri; Sandy East, Oklahoma; Linda Ann Lee, Oregon State; Ilena Rubenstein, Pittsburgh; Patti Blackledge, Rice Institute; Beverly Young, Southern Methodist; Sarah Young, Tulane; Clara Tina Billero, Washington.

"Miss Football" will be chosen Thursday.

Dupas to Fight Miceli In New Orleans Tonight

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Flashy New Orleans lightweight Ralph Dupas said he plans to "take the fight" to hard punching Joey Miceli tonight during their 10-round bout here.

When asked about his weakness to left hooks, and to the potent left hook that Miceli packs, Dupas said that he had mastered that weakness by "stepping in with a fast right hand."

The boys in the know seem to agree with the speedy 21-year-old. One said Dupas should enter the ring tonight a 2 to 1 favorite.

Miceli's manager, Harry Slickers, said, "Joey has been in the habit of boxing welter and middleweights. He has nobody, and he thinks that fighting a lightweight like Dupas will be much easier for a change."

Dupas goes into the ring with a clean slate. Miceli, on the other hand, has had his troubles. He lost earlier this year to Tom Blanton Smith and Jackie Tabala, a couple of hard-hitting welterweights. Miceli's last three fights have been kayo-wins, the last one over Johnny Saxton.

The outcome of this match is important since the winner of the bout would have a strong talking point in the event that Carmen Basilio defeats Sugar Ray Robinson later this year.
